THE

DUBLIN REVIEW.

79

VOL. XXVII. NEW SERIES.

JULY—OCTOBER,

MDCCCLXXVI.

PUBLIC LIBRARY,
DETROIT, MICH.
SEP 17 1888

LONDON:
BURNS, OATES, & CO., 17 & 18 PORTMAN STREET,
AND 63 PATERNOSTER ROW.
DERBY: RICHARDSON & SONS.
DUBLIN: JAMES DUFFY; W. B. KELLY; McGLASHAN & GILL.
BALTIMORE: KELLY, PIET & CO.
MONTREAL, CANADA: D. & J. SADLER & CO
1876.

LONDON
WYMAN AND SONS, PRINTERS, GREAT QUEEN STREET,
LINCOLN'S-INN FIELDS, W.C.

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—PROFESSOR MIVART ON LIBERTY OF CONSCIENCE.

Dr. Mivart's theory of civicism . . . . . Page 3
Catholic doctrine on the obligation of conscience 5
Criticism of Dr. Mivart's inference from this doctrine . . . 7
Liberty of conscience impeded by civil toleration of error . . . 14
Inestimable blessing of the State's Catholic unity 15
Great desirableness that the State's true ethical basis be wide . . 20
The State's proper course towards any large development of atheistic immorality 27

ART. II.—CREMATION.

The fluctuations in public opinion 38
The history of cremation 39
Cases in which the rite was refused 42
Various modes among different nations of disposing of their dead . 43
Cremation repugnant to Christianity 45
In certain cases cremation might be preferable 47
Signor Burci on cremation 49
Cremation ordered by Julian the Apostate 51
After his death it was discontinued until it was again proposed during the French Revolution 52
Modern writings on the subject 54
No Catholic will advocate the practice 56

ART. III.—MR. MILL ON CAUSATION.

Recapitulation of former articles 57
Mr. Mill's sense of the word "cause" 64
The universal belief of mankind in a causation different from this . 67
In what precise sense of the word do mankind universally believe the existence of causation 69

The principle of causation established . . . . . Page 73
Causation in no way depends on the uniformity of nature . . . 80
The principle of causation entirely ampliative 81

ART. IV.—THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Divine judgments have been generally disregarded 83
Human miseries usually arise from a revolt against God . . . 85
The view Washington took of religious matters 87
The deplorable religious condition of the United States . . . 90
List of sects in the United States 91
The loyalty of the Catholics in the States 94
Governments which pretend to rule without God and the Church are bad 95
All republics rule selfishly 97
Any government based on the doctrine of the Reformation is a foe to true Christian liberty 101
Mr. Carlyle on Democracy 104
Enlightened public opinion in America at the present day objects to the "sovereignty of the people" 105
Nor did the founders of the American republic approve of that doctrine 108
It will inevitably lead to despotism 109
No society can be durable unless it be in accord with the Church . 114
Hope for the United States should that country become reconciled to the Church. 116

ART. V.—THE WITNESS OF S. IRENÆUS TO CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

The evidence S. Irenæus bears to the Catholic rule of faith . . 117
His refutation of the Gnostic heresy 120
S. Irenæus on the Godhead of the Son 126
F. Newman on Arianism 130
S. Irenæus on the doctrine of the Holy Trinity 132
Two defects in his language 134
His comparison between Eve and the Virgin Mary 138
S. Irenæus on the Eucharist 146
Appendix 153

ART. VI.—MR. ALFRED AUSTIN'S HUMAN TRAGEDY.

Success of the author in fixing upon our own time for the date of his poem 156
Analysis of the work 156
Its opening stanzas 158

The human weakness portrayed in the first act . . . . Page 161
The second act the best of the four 162
The key-note of the poem 164
The improvement in the style of the present over the first edition . 169
Mr. Austin's account of the storming of Monte Rotondo unworthy of him 171
His account of the battle of Mentana unjust 173
Improbability of his account of the journey of Olympia and Godfrid . 176
The change in the character of Godfrid 177
Love, Religion, Country, and Mankind constitute the motive powers which influence all our noblest emotions 181

VII.—A Few More Words on Fessler.

Previous statements and correspondence on Mgr. Fessler's treatise . 183
Purport of that treatise 190
Bearing of the Pope's Brief on the authority of the Syllabus . . 195

Art. VIII.—The Republican Victory in France.

The change in French politics since last year 198
The contested elections to the Chamber of Deputies 200
The composition of the Republican party 202
Its programme 204
The spread of atheistical doctrines in France 206
Education the main battle ground in France 209
The future policy of European Liberalism 211
Result to be expected if Liberalism obtains a lasting triumph in France 212

Note to the April Number 213

On Religious Unity and Toleration 215

Notices of Books.

The Archbishop of Westminster's Glories of the Sacred Heart . . 234
Rev. H. J. Coleridge's The Sermon on the Mount 237
Mr. Leslie Stephen's An Agnostic's Apology 238
Ven. F. Augustine Baker's Sancta Sophia; or, Directions for the Prayer of Contemplation 239
S. Ignatius—His Testimony to Primitive Conception of the Christian Religion 241
Pomponio Leto's Eight Months at Rome, during the Vatican Council . 244

The Church Quarterly on Miracles . . . . . Page 245
Rev. F. O'Reilly's Relations of the Church to Society 249
Short Sermons preached in the Chapel of S. Mary's College, Oscott . 250
Right Rev. Mgr. Patterson's Rome and Italy 251
Rev. H. Formby's Five Letters on the City of Ancient Rome . . 252
Mr. Aubrey De Vere's S. Thomas of Canterbury 253
Mr. R. W. Emerson's Letters and Social Aims 254
Bishop T. Watson's Sermons on the Sacraments 256
Archbishop of Sens' Confidence in the Mercy of God 259
Maurus's Questiones Philosophicæ 260
Miss A. C. Thompson's Preludes 264
Sir J. C. Barrow's Poems 268
Songs in the Night 269
The Wyndham Family 270
Lady Gertrude Douglas's Linked Lives 273
Madame Monteiro's Sanctuary Meditations for Priests and Frequent Communicants 275

PRONOUNCEMENT ON ROSMINI'S WORKS 277

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—POMPONIO LETO ON THE VATICAN COUNCIL.

The misery endured in reading the work of Pomponio Leto . Page 281
The resemblance between his work and that of Quirinus . . . 283
No true Catholic could have written the work 285
Critical examination of the book 287
The result is extreme wearisomeness 297
The question of Cardinal Vitelleschi's authorship 299

ART. II.—THE GOSPEL NARRATIVE OF THE RESURRECTION.

Importance of studying the historical evidence of the Resurrection . 299
Alleged discrepancies in the Gospel narrative 304
The chief one of these set forth 313
Characteristics of composition in the Gospels 315
Two purposes in the manifestations of Jesus Risen 319
S. Matthew's account of the manifestations 319
S. Luke's 322
S. John's 323
S. Mark's 326
Summary 327
Catholic doctrine on inspiration 334
The narrative easily reconcilable with that doctrine 334
And adds positive intrinsic evidence of the Resurrection . . . 335

ART. III.—F. BAKER'S "SANCTA SOPHIA."

Prayer the natural sequence of a knowledge of the Supreme Being . 338
It is spiritual discipline 340
Of "Spiritual Discretion" 343
F. Baker on Contemplation 347
There is no method of acquiring it 349
It begins with meditation 354
F. Baker on Discourse 358
The striking character of F. Baker's work 366

ART. IV.—ANGLICANISM IN AUSTRALIA.

The intensely national character of Anglicanism . . . . Page 368
Opposition of the Catholic hierarchy to Henry VIII. and to Elizabeth 370
The dependence of Anglicanism upon the State 374
The infamous character of its early bishops 375
Dr. Barker on Protestantism 377
Identity in his opinions with those of the ancient Pagans . . . 382
The high estimation in which the Scriptures were held in the "dark ages" 386
Dr. Barker's misrepresentation of the reason of the Pope's supremacy . 391
Difficulty in thinking he believes all he asserts 397
Consolation in the hope that the persecution which Catholics are now enduring in many countries will but herald a brighter day . . 399

ART. V.—CRITICAL HISTORY OF THE SONNET.

The characteristics of a true Sonnet 402
Analysis of the Italian Sonnet 405
The Sonnet owes its development to Italy 408
The beauty of Camoens' Sonnets 411
French Sonnet-writers 415
The Sonnet in Germany 418
Specimens from Early English Sonnet-writers 420
Wordsworth the restorer of the Sonnet in England 424
Modern English Sonneteers 430

ART. VI.—MR. TYNDALL AND CONTEMPORARY THOUGHT.

Mr. Tyndall's position at Belfast 431
The difference between a Catholic and a non-Catholic 435
The modern complaint that faith has departed 439
Remedy proposed in the "Grammar of Assent" 441
On the necessity of a proper conception of the works we read . . 445
The opinions of Mr. Tyndall are not original, but only remarkable for the manner in which he places them before the public . . . 447
His attack upon the Catholic Church 450
With regard to science, his views are akin to materialistic Hegelianism 458
His religion appears as the latest form of Buddhism 466

ART. VII.—THE EARL OF STRAFFORD.

The interesting characters of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries . 469
The early life of Wentworth 471
He is appointed Lord-Deputy of Ireland 471

Although harsh in many of his actions, his genius and energy were astounding . . . . . Page 476
His devotion to the King 481
His belief of the subserviency of the Church to the State . . . 486
He was not a bad Lord-Deputy as times went 488
The war with the Scots 491
Wentworth created Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland 492
He is impeached by the Commons, and committed to the Tower . . 496
The personal spite of Pym against Strafford, who is condemned . . 498
His execution did not stop the struggle between Charles and the Puritans 499

ART. VIII.—THE IMPENDING WAR.

Anxious aspect of affairs 500
The agitation about the atrocities perpetrated in Bulgaria . . . 501
Mr. Gladstone's language about them 504
His proposals as to foreign policy 506
The Duke of Argyll on the Turks 507
Attitude of the Government and the country 508

NOTE TO OUR LAST NUMBER 508

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

Bishop Ullathorne's Ecclesiastical Discourses delivered on Special Occasions 514
Rev. T. E. Bridgett's Discipline of Drink 517
Right Rev. Mgr. Patterson's Rome and Italy 520
Mr. Lilly's Some Considerations on the Civilization of the Nineteenth Century 523
Rev. Dr. Todd's The Religious Life 528
Lord Blachford's The Reality of Duty as illustrated by the Biography of John Stuart Mill 531
Dr. J. B. Morley's University and other Sermons 532
Mr. Oxenham's Catholic Eschatology and Universalism 532
Mr. Trevelyan's Life and Letters of Lord Macaulay 532
Rev. F. Hurter's Theologiæ Dogmaticæ Compendium 533
Professor Scheeben's Manual of Catholic Dogma 535
Professor Janssen's Geschichte des deutschen Volkes seit dem Ausgang des Mittelalters 539
M. Brin's De Intellectualismo, juxta mentem Syllabi Vaticanique Concilii 541

Documents concerning the History of the Church in England during the Times of Persecution . . . . . Page 543
Rev. F. Law's A Calendar of the English Martyrs of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries 544
Mr. Cunningham's Letters of St. Augustine, Bishop of Hippo . . 545
Mr. Pilkington's The Confessions of St. Augustine, Bishop of Hippo . 545
Rev. G. Bampfield's Stories of Martyr Priests 546
Lady Herbert's Life of Mother Maria Teresa, Foundress of the Congregation of the Adoration of Reparation 547
Life of Rev. Mother St. Joseph, Foundress of the Congregation of Sisters of St. Joseph of Bordeaux 549
Rev. A. Rowley's A Devout Exposition of the Holy Mass, with an ample Declaration of all the Rites and Ceremonies belonging to the same 550
Very Rev. T. Burke's Gold and Alloy in a Devout Life . . . 551
"W. H. A.'s" The Duchess Transformed 552
M. Dorange's Catalogue descriptif et raisonné des Manuscrits de la Bibliothèque de Tours 553

Liberty of Conscience. By Professor St. George Mivart . 555